Dear Juanita,

As you perhaps know, the Central Intelligence Agency and the Intelligence Community adopted the essentially complete use of metric units of measure in intelligence reports almost two years ago. For about four years, the Agency has had a metric planning group to arrange this transition in our reporting, and this group continues to monitor and direct the Agency's metrification activity. This group has also provided Agency representation in interagency metrification programs as appropriate.

I have found our representation in this activity creative and appropriate to the task. I would, of course, make every effort to elevate the level of Agency representation if this becomes indispensable to the achievement of US Government metrification objectives.

Yours,
